Client Copying

Client copying allows the supply of newspaper and magazine content to your clients or members.

The licence includes cover for (but not limited to):

- Supplying photocopied articles to clients or members
- Scanning and emailing articles to clients or members
- Allowing clients or members access your media monitoring service as permitted users
- Supplying magazine website content to clients or members

If you supply photocopied content to clients the paper fee payable is shown in the table below and is charged on the basis of per client or member supplied.

If you supply content to clients or members via email then this charge will be based on the number of email addresses that content is sent.

If you subscribe to a media monitoring service, to which your clients have access, they will need to be included as permitted users on your licence.

If you have requested cover for regional newspapers and magazines, the basic client copying fee will take that number into account as set out into the tables below.

Please contact us for details and prices if you want to copy foreign newspapers to clients.

Indemnity - protection against previously unlicensed copying

NLA can cover you for previous years unlicensed copying in the form of an indemnity.

In accordance with the Limitation Act 1980, NLA is entitled to collect licence fees for a maximum of six year's previously unlicensed copying. This is referred to as full indemnity as it covers your organisation for all copying ever undertaken.

Please advise the NLA of the date when your organisation commenced copying. We will arrange the appropriate cover for that period.

The Indemnity fee is a one off payment and is calculated based on today's annual licence value.

Worked example

A company advised NLA they commenced copying 6 months prior to their initial licence application.

Annual licence	£1,000
Six months of unlicensed copying (£1000*50%)	£500
Total	£1,500
