How NLA licenses UK businesses

The Basic Licence covers organisations for occasional copying from all UK national newspaper titles and up to 5 UK regional titles. More titles can be added for an additional fee.

Fee is determined by the lower of the organisation’s Headcount or Turnover + number of additional titles selected.

The Frequent Copying Licence in addition to the Basic Licence, covers organisations for regular sharing of copies – usually received from a Media Monitoring Organisation (MMO), with staff on a pre-determined recipient list.

Fee is calculated by:

\[
\text{Number of articles received} \times \frac{1}{\text{Number of recipients}} \times \text{Price per copy}
\]

Combined, the Basic Licence and Frequent Copying Licence make up 75% of our total licensing revenues.
